Wilderness (4)

My family is pretty important to me. They along with my mother are the reason I started my Kiwi Lane journey. I have grown so much over the years and have become a better version of myself with many skills that I am grateful to have acquired. I have loved being able to share that journey with my little "tribe". My family has been there every step of my Kiwi journey from supporting me at trade shows, helping package and ship products when needed, to being my sounding board when I am designing paper lines. They are my rock. I love what I do and love the creative life that I have been blessed to live with the support of my tribe.

Chevrons (1A) Tiny Tags (1T)
A la carte (Tickled, Feather, Forget Me Not)

My kids were pretty young when we first started Kiwi Lane in 2009. They have always been very supportive even when I was traveling around the U.S. and did 10 scrapbook expos in one year! I've always been really open with them on the hard work it took to get a business up and going, and included them in any decision-making that effected both me and my family.

And they responded by supporting me...I know there were days that I would be at the office working late and they would show up to give me dinner, or just be in the office with me, working on their own projects near me, so that we could be together that day while I worked. I shared with them both the good things that happened (so many!) as well as the challenges that I faced...all so that we could help remind each other that this is often how life is; whenever you are working towards something important or meaningful, it doesn't happen over night. It takes a lot of hard work! They have become my "why". My goal continues to be to show my family that when you can make a living doing something that you love, and create connections with people who Inspire you along the way...then you are truly blessed. 🌸

Brackets (2) A la carte (Tickled, Forget Me Not)

Tip

Card bases don't have to be a solid color. Cut a card base out of your left over main patterns and use the basic patterns to layer on top to create a design that pops off your card.

Layer A la carte (Curly) over a coordinating strip to create a fun two-tone bracket effect.

Tip

Take advantage of the double sided paper in this kit by cutting two chevrons and using opposite sides on your layout.

Love Them Hard

Tiny Brackets (IT) A la carte (Forget Me Not)

My Family, my tribe, has been at the heart of my Kiwi journey from the very beginning – working hard, supporting, encouraging, inspiring, and celebrating each new milestone together. As I look back over the last 10 years, I know I have been blessed not only with the wonderful family that I have, but with the opportunities that Kiwi Lane has given us to work and grow together. In so many ways, Kiwi Lane has become an extension of my family – a part of my larger 'tribe', and I couldn't be happier!
