Instead of using the full Rings template, trim off the end and align it with the straight edge of your paper. This technique creates a seamless look that blends beautifully into your layout—perfect if you want a more grounded design. It also makes a stunning canvas for your photos!

Cut out a rings template and use a 1/8" hole punch to make holes spaced 1/2 inch apart around the edges. Then, weave twine or thread of your choice in and out of the holes to add a fun, textured detail.

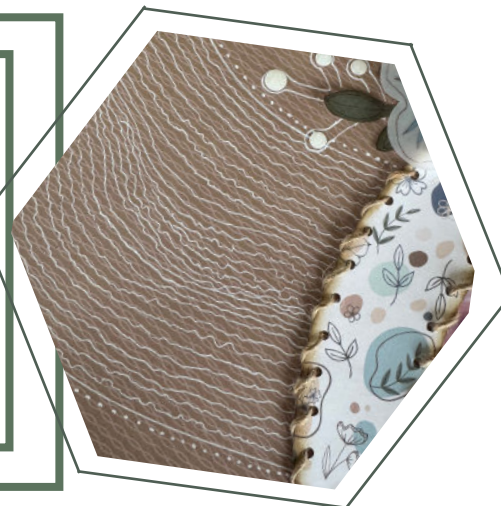

Incorporate interactive journaling into your layout without taking up extra space by turning a photo into a pocket. Adhere only the outer edges of the photo to your page, leaving one side open to slide in a journaling card. Add a small tab to the card for easy pull-out access. For a creative touch, try using the upper portion of Placemats 4 as your journaling card.

Try creating vellum flowers for a soft, layered look. After cutting the shape from vellum, outline the edges with a thin marker and draw lines radiating from the center. Flip the piece over and lightly color in the lines with a soft-toned marker. Once flipped back, add tiny white dots with a gel pen for a whimsical finish. For a sparkly center, punch out small circles, add Stickles on top, and let them dry before adhering.

You don't always need to cut out paper to add a stylish touch with your templates. Try simply tracing the design directly onto your page using gel pens. This works especially well with backdrop templates like streamers, creating a minimalist canvas for your photos and accessories. You can also trace smaller embellishments, like tiny plants or leaves, to add subtle detail without added bulk.

Layer flowers made from different textures—like vellum, burlap, and patterned paper—to add depth and visual interest to each bloom.

Mixing materials creates dimension and makes your floral embellishments stand out beautifully on the page.

Layer two butterfly shapes together, cutting out the stencil details on the top layer to create a beautiful see-through effect. This technique adds depth, dimension, and a pop of color to your design.

Use the Lovely 4 template as a cutout to create a scalloped edge on your title cards instead of using it as a frame. This unexpected twist adds a soft, decorative border that brings a touch of charm and creativity to your page design.

By Debra Johnson (design team)

There are so many creative ways to bring your butterfly designs to life. Try adding dimension by cutting out the stencil pieces and layering them on top for a 3D effect. You can also add a delicate layer of vellum over a cardstock butterfly and outline the wings with glitter for a soft, whimsical touch.

The 'Love' stencil in this kit features a slight curve, making it perfect for adding titles along circular elements like Rings or other curved templates. It's an easy way to create flow and visual interest in your layout design.

Create a dimensional rose using the Blossom 1 template by first cutting it out of paper, then trimming a spiral into the flower shape. Roll and tuck the spiral inward to form a beautiful, layered rose. For a closer look at this technique, scan the QR code!

The new Lovely 4 template offers endless design possibilities! Try playing with the orientation, doubling up for extra depth, or adding a photo or title card in the center. Use the banner to highlight a title of your choice and bring your layout to life.

Double up on the butterfly for extra dimension, and use gel pen details throughout the page to create a sense of balance and unity in your design.

Enhance your butterfly designs by using a gel pen to add delicate details through the stencil feature of the template. This minimalist touch subtly elevates the design. For an extra pop, add enamel dots to the wings for added dimension and interest.

To create a variety of flower styles, try using the same template twice and offsetting it slightly to form a layered, multi-petal effect. You can also layer smaller flowers—like those from Tiny Plants—on top of larger ones such as Blossom to create a beautiful, decreasing-size petal look.

Jennifer Harjo (design team)

Use a paper piercer to curl flower petals for added dimension and shape. A ball stylus can also help loosen paper fibers and gently mold the petals, but a piercer offers more control for precise curling.

Create a subtle shadowed effect by layering the same journaling card shape—like Expressions 5—twice.

Simply cut the shape from two different papers or shades, then slightly offset the top layer over the bottom one. This easy technique adds depth, dimension, and a professional-looking finish to your journaling spots.

Use the Lovely 4 template to frame a photo and introduce creative variety to your layout. It's a great way to break up traditional photo blocks and add a unique, eye-catching element that draws attention to special moments.

Add playful dimension to your butterfly embellishments by layering two shapes with foam adhesive in between. For extra detail, place enamel dots in increasing sizes within the stencil design of the top layer. This creates a sense of movement and gives the illusion of a shaker box effect—perfect for adding texture and visual interest to your layout.

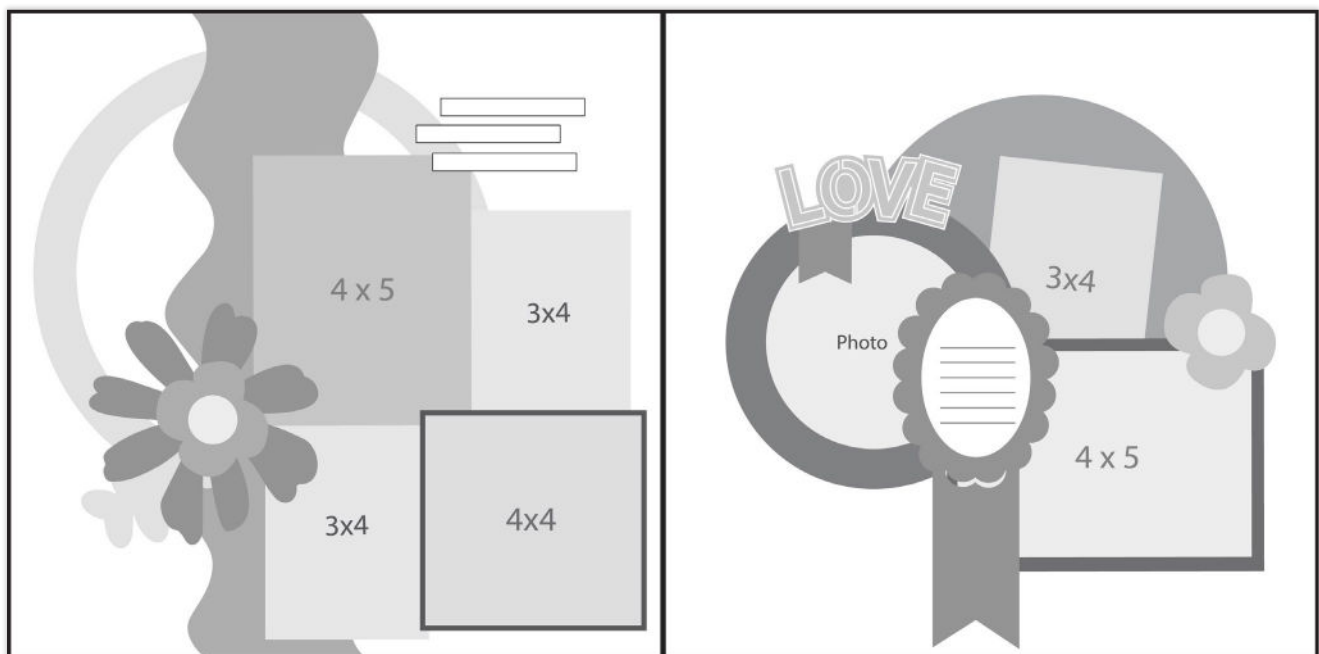

Depending on your photo selection and coordinating paper, try mixing black and white photos into your layout. This simple choice adds visual contrast, highlights certain moments, and brings a fresh sense of variety and interest to your page.
